

Unique expertise, proven service delivery

“Thirty-five years in business, more than 60 consecutive profitable quarters and counting. No company achieves this track record without a sound strategy and a clear understanding of its strengths.”

Consistently rated as ‘superior’

with healthcare companies at all stages of development, from start-up to large public enterprises.

In 2004, Calian secured a pivotal contract to provide health services support for DND installations across the country. “Calian had built a successful track record in delivering large national programs,” Murray said. “This expertise and experience, including a history of high customer and workforce satisfaction, translated perfectly to DND’s health requirements. Since 2004, Calian’s performance on the DND health contract has been consistently rated as ‘superior’ and Calian has become the employer of choice for the many health professionals who have worked with us.”

Calian Health manages large-scale networks of medical clinics and facilities across Canada, and delivers a complete range of healthcare professionals to customer sites. With a network of over 1,500 healthcare professionals, Calian is one of the largest national healthcare services providers in Canada.

Calian’s Health Services is led by Scott Murray. With over 25 years of experience across multiple disciplines, including operations, corporate strategy, business development, legal, finance and communications, he has worked Calian has since parlayed this expertise and emphasis on employee and customer satisfaction to other markets, including corrections (federal, provincial and municipal) and oil and gas.

“In a period of constrained government spending during the late 2000s, we recognized the need to diversify,” Murray said. “We wanted to differentiate ourselves, to be a truly national player in an industry that is often broken up province by province. Being able to address health on a national scale was unique.”

Today, Calian Health manages a national network of healthcare professionals in over 60 different categories, from dental and medical to occupational and mental health. Within the Defence community, Calian is also recognized for hiring veterans and supporting military families through programs like the Military Family Doctor Network (MFDN) and Canada Company’s Military Employment Transition (MET and MET Spouse). For the past two years, Calian has been recognized as the MET Employer of the Year.

Calian Health clients now range from Shell Canada to Canada Border Services Agency, RCMP and Correctional Services Canada. Calian also owns and operates Primacy Management Inc., which manages the medical clinic program for Loblaw with over 140 clinics located in Loblaw banner stores (including Real Canadian Superstore®, Zehrs®, Loblaws® and No Frills®) across Canada.

“With our national perspective, we are constantly exploring new opportunities to grow and leverage our health networks and program delivery expertise,” Murray said.
